Document set out reason for S.C. secession: slavery

n Dec. 24, 1860, the delegates to the S.C. Secession Convention in Charleston adopted a six-page "Declaration of the Immediate Causes Which Induce and Justify the Secession of South Carolina from the Federal. Union." They ordered that 15,000 copies be printed together with the two-paragraph Ordinance of Secession. The first half of the declaration lays the legal groundwork for secession, recounting the circumstances under which the Revolutionary War was fought and the Union of the General established and paying particular Government attention to the idea that each h a v e state was "free, sovereign and ceased independent." The second half. t which explains the reason for effect secession, follows:

We assert that fourteen of the States have deliberately refused, for years past, to fulfill their constitutional obligations, and we refer to their own Statutes for the proof.

The Constitution of the United States, in its fourth Article, provides as follows:

"No person held to service or labor in one State, under the laws thereof, escaping to another, shall, in consequence of any law or regulation therein, be discharged from such service or labor, but shall be delivered up, on claim to the party to whom such service or labor may be due."

This stipulation was so material to the compact, that without it that compact would not have been made. The greater number of the contracting parties held slaves. and they had previously evinced their estimate of the value of such a stipulation by making it a condition in the Ordinance for the government of the territory ceded by Virginia, which now composes the tribunals; and the States of Ohio States north of the Ohio River.

tution stipulates also for rendition with murder, and with by the several States of fugitives inciting servile insurrecfrom justice from the other States.

DECLARATION OF THE IMMEDIATE CAUSES The General (federal) Government, as the common agent, constitutional passed laws to carry into effect compact these stipulations of the States. h a s For many years these laws were executed. But an increasing hostility on the part of the non-slaveholding States to the institution of slavery, has led to a disregard of their obligations, and the laws t h e objects of the Constitution. The states of Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Connecticut, Rhode Island, New York, Pennsylvania, Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Wisconsin and Iowa, have enacted laws which either nullify the Acts of Congress or render useless any attempt to execute them. In many of these States the fugitive is discharged from the service or labor claimed, and in none of them has the State Government complied with the stipulation made in the Constitu- been tion. The State of New Jersey, at deliberan early day, passed a law in conformity with her constitutional ken and obligation; but the current of antislavery feeling has led her more by the nonrecently to enact laws which ren- slaveholding der inoperative the remedies pro- States, and the vided by her own law and by the consequence follaws of Congress. In the State of lows that South Car-New York even the right of transit olina is released from and Iowa have refused to surren-

The same article of the Consti- der to justice fugitives charged tution was framed are declared by tion in the State of domestic tranquillity, provide Virginia. Thus the for the common defence, promote the general welfare, and secure the blessings of liberty to ourselves and our posterity." endeavored

> Federal Government, in which

ately brodisregarded for a slave has been denied by her her obligation (to the > Union). The ends for which this Consti-

over its own institutions. The right of property in slaves was recognized by giving to free persons distinct political rights, by giving them the right to represent, and burthening them with direct taxes for three-fifths of their slaves; by authorizing the importation of slaves for twenty years; and by stipulating for the rendition of fugitives from labor.

We affirm that these ends for itself to be "to form a more perfect which this Government was instiunion, establish justice, insure tuted have been defeated, and the Government itself has been made destructive of them by the action of the non-slaveholding States. right of deciding upon the propriety of our domestic institutions; These ends it and have denied the rights of property established in fifteen of accomplish by a the States and recognized by the Constitution: they have denounced as sinful the institution of Slavery; each State they have permitted the open (take away) the property of the citizens of other States. They have encouraged and assisted thousands of our slaves to leave their homes; and those who remain, have been incited by emissaries, books and pictures to servile insurrection.

> For twenty-five years this agitation has been steadily increasing, until it has now secured to its aid mon Government. Observing the forms of the Constitution, a sectional party has found within that article establishing the Executive Department. the means of subverting the Constitution itself. A geographical line has been drawn across the Union, and all the States north of that line have united in the election of a man to the high office of President of the United States whose opinions and purposes are hostile to slavery. He is to be entrusted with the administration of the Common Government, because he has declared that "Government cannot endure permanently half slave, half free," and that the public mind must rest in the belief that Slavery is the course of ultimate extinction.

The sectional combination for the submersion of the Constitution, has been aided in some of the States by elevating to citizenship persons, who, by the Supreme Law of the land, are Those States have assumed the incapable of becoming citizens; and their votes have been used to inaugurate a new policy, hostile to the South, and destructive to its peace and safety.

On the 4th of March next, this party will take possession of the Government. It has announced, that the South shall be excluded establishment among them of from the common Territory; that as societies, whose avowed object is the Judicial Tribunals shall be an equal, to disturb the peace and to eloign made sectional, and that a war must be waged against slavery until it shall cease throughout the United States.

> The Guarantees of the Constitution will then no longer exist: the equal rights of the States will be lost. The slaveholding States will no longer have the power of self-government, or self-protection, and the Federal Government will have become their enemy.

Sectional interest and animosity will deepen the irritation, and the power of the Com- all hope of remedy is rendered vain, by the fact that public opinion at the North has invested a great political error with the sanctions of a more erroneous religious belief.

We, therefore, the people of South Carolina, by our delegates, in Convention assembled appealing to the Supreme Judge of the world for the rectitude of our intentions, have solemnly declared that the Union heretofore existing between this State and the other States of North America, is dissolved, and that the State of South Carolina has resumed her position among the nations of the world, as a separate and independent State; with full power to levy war, conclude peace, contract alliances, establish commerce, and to do all other acts and things which independent States may of right do.